Notes

- 1 Question One, on Rules for Cadastral Survey 2010, will be a compulsory question worth 20 marks.
- 2 Except for Question One, each question will be worth 15 marks. Overall there will be a total of 80 marks for the five questions answered.
- 3 The minimum pass mark for the Written Exam is 50%. Candidates should note however, that a combined minimum mark of 60% will be required to pass the Cadastral law exam comprising the Written Exam and Research Component. Candidates should also note the Written Exam is worth 60% of the total marks for the overall examination whilst the Research Component is worth 40% of the total marks.
- 4 Candidates are advised that while some of the questions will relate to the specific parts/sections of the Acts referred to, the questions will cover areas that a licensed cadastral surveyor would generally expect to understand and be familiar with.

Candidates are therefore advised to consult appropriate publications in addition to the Acts, Rules, Standards or Rulings listed.

- 5 The Rules for Cadastral Survey 2010, the current Surveyor-General's Rulings, and the Standard for Lodgement of Cadastral Survey Datasets can be found on the LINZ website.
- 6 Candidates are reminded that where reference has been made to Acts in this preview, this is deemed to include all subsequent amendments to those Acts. Candidates are therefore advised to check they are consulting up-to-date copies of legislation when preparing for this examination.
- 7 The examination will not include questions on new legislation, rules, standards or rulings, or amendments to existing legislation, rules, standards or rulings that are passed or made after 31 December 2017. For the avoidance of doubt, if an Act is passed, or Rule, or Standard or Ruling made, before 31 December 2017, but does not come into effect until after 31 December 2017, the examination may include questions about that Act, Rule, Standard or Ruling.
- 8 A strict policy of closed book will apply to the examination. Candidates are not permitted to bring any items of legislation or other relevant information into the examination.
